Finesse has a Name

The Meister fein Automatic by Junghans – a twofold pledge.

Ever since its origins almost a century ago, the Meister line has constituted the heart of Junghans' watch collection, and its name a hallmark of highest quality and design standards. The newest watch series by Junghans reinforces the continuity of this tradition in every detail: The Meister fein. With its delicate design and innovative geometry, the timepiece carries the unique identity of the Meister into the present and future. A trendsetting facet for the Meister, represented in the novelty's name.

In tender rose gold, the new Meister fein Automatic combines the functionality of the watch series with warmth and elegance. The design of the Meister fein remains puristic, emphasising the watches' innovative geometry. A spherically domed sapphire crystal and its fine case join together seamlessly, forming a disc shape as if from one single piece. A display back grants a view of the finely decorated self-winding movement.

Whilst elongated hour markers characterise the simplistic front of the timepiece, fine golden-coloured baton hands provide the domed, white polished dial with warm colour nuances and lustre. Slightly elevated towards its centre and completely free of seams, the black leather strap completes the classic appearance of the Meister fein Automatic.

The new Meister fein Automatic combines the watch series' clear functionality with warm accentuation – shaping a design classic for the future. Highest quality standards and a fine design, the Meister fein carries both characteristics in its name – rightfully so.
