A Masterful Allrounder

Junghans combines classic watch design with a modern casual feel in the new Meister S Automatic

This watch does not compromise: the new Meister S Automatic is a sporty timepiece that can't deny its relationship with the elegant Meister line. Junghans launches the new three-hand series with two different stainless-steel models, and both go just as well with everyday business attire and sporty outfits.

Strong visuals in a robust shell

The Meister S Automatic is commanding, masculine, and never leaves its owner in the lurch. The powerfully designed stainless-steel case is pressure resistant to 20 bar, thus also water resistant to 200 meters; the carefully sealed case back secured with seven screws and the screw-in crown secured between the two striking crown protectors make sure of this. This sturdy case protects automatic Caliber J800.4, which displays the date and weekday along with the time, very useful information for every day, which is shown on the domed dials in navy blue and olive green. These are manufactured in a detailed manner that incorporates applied indexes inlaid with luminous material. This ecofriendly luminous substance is also applied to the skeletonized hour and minute hands, which results in first-class readability even in the dark. An antireflective, scratch-resistant sapphire crystal curves over the dial.

Rubber or stainless steel

The variation with navy blue dial comes on a black, synthetic rubber strap inlaid with blue leather. The name of the watch is embossed on the underside of the strap – which is not only a nice detail, but also ensures a ventilated wearing sensation. A secure hold on the wrist is guaranteed by a folding clasp. The model with the olive-green dial and stainless-steel link bracelet is an alternative full of character, and a fine adjustment for length integrated into the clasp also heightens its comfort. It doesn't matter which variation a watch fan chooses, with the Meister S Automatic they are always on the right side.
